

An ordinary glass. An extraordinary family story.

A richly illustrated Jewish story of memory, tradition, and the bonds between generations.

APPROVED HARDCOVER FRONT

APPROVED HARDCOVER BACK

A simple candle. A curious boy. A memory that connects generations.

ABOUT THE BOOK

Six-year-old Jackie discovers a yahrzeit candle burning in an ordinary drinking glass. His father explains that it honors Grandpa Jack, whom Jackie never knew. Through stories of immigration, hard work, kindness, faith, and family, Jackie learns how simple objects can carry memories from one generation to the next.

IDEAL FOR

- Jewish families and grandparents
- Synagogue gift shops and Judaica bookstores
- Hebrew schools, day schools, and libraries
- Family-memory programs and meaningful gifts

BOOK DETAILS

Hardcover: Case laminate | $24.95
ISBN: 979-8-9976390-0-6
Paperback: Perfect bound | $16.95
ISBN: 979-8-9976390-1-3
Trim: 11 x 8.5 inches, landscape
Length: 48 pages, full color
Audience: Ages 6–8; Grades 1–3; family read-aloud

ORDERING

BOOKSTORES, LIBRARIES & SCHOOLS

Order through Ingram using the appropriate ISBN above.

CONSUMERS

Choose hardcover or paperback through online or independent bookstores beginning October 1, 2026.

Murmin Books does not accept direct orders.

ABOUT AL KUSTANOWITZ

Publisher of Jewish Humor Central and a longtime lecturer on Jewish history, culture, and humor. He lives in New Jersey and Florida.

PROGRAMS AND PUBLICITY

- Author interviews and guest articles
- Readings and family-memory programs
- Appearances for synagogues, schools, libraries, and community groups

INQUIRIES ONLY

Media, reviews, events, and rights

Al Kustanowitz | Murmin Books

akustan@gmail.com | 201-390-7535

murminbooks.com

Review copies and high-resolution images are available on request.